Senior Pricing Manager, QBE

Skills & experience

General insurance actuary with expertise in pricing and analytics across corporate and consulting roles. Steph can support you in communication and influence, growing capability, learning and growth, problem solving, and adaptability.

Steph Liu is a qualified actuary who serves as Senior Pricing Manager at QBE. With 10 years of experience in general insurance across corporate and consulting roles, she specialises in pricing and analytics, bringing practical expertise from diverse organisational contexts. This breadth of experience provides her with a strong understanding of how pricing and analytics functions operate in different environments, as well as the varied challenges and career pathways within the actuarial profession.

Early in her career, Steph benefited greatly from being a mentee in a mentoring program and developed a strong, long-term relationship with her mentor. Having experienced the impact of effective mentoring firsthand, she is keen to give back and support the development of younger professionals. She is motivated to mentor others in building confidence and capability in their careers, drawing on her own positive mentoring experience.

Steph can provide guidance on communication and influence, growing capability, learning and growth, problem solving, and adaptability.
