Senior Pricing Manager - IAG

Skills & experience

General insurance pricing leader with expertise in strategy, transformation, and innovation across UK and Australian markets. Theeban can support you in strategic relationships, communication and influence, innovation and creativity, problem solving, and commercial acumen.

Theeban Kuganesan is a qualified actuary who serves as Senior Pricing Manager at IAG, where he leads the Pricing Strategy & Transformation team. He is an experienced general insurance actuary with over 15 years of experience specializing in insurance pricing, strategic portfolio management, and transformation. His career spans technical and leadership roles in both the UK and Australia.

At IAG, Theeban is responsible for driving innovation and developing best-in-class pricing capability for the organization. His experience encompasses both traditional actuarial work for corporate insurance companies and non-traditional areas within the consulting space, giving him comprehensive perspective on how pricing functions operate in different contexts.

Theeban has had several mentors over his career which has been very useful to his development. He was encouraged by senior actuaries at an IAG internal actuarial event to do more volunteering with the Institute of Actuaries, and he sees the mentor program as a valuable area to contribute. His own positive mentoring experiences motivate him to give back and support others in their actuarial careers.
